Is Marriage a Success?

AS THEY DO IN TURKEY.
To the Marriage Editor:
I am a Turkish gentleman. I do not know whether the views of a foreigner will be welcome, but I do not think that the American marriage can ever be a success. It is based on the wrong plan. In it the woman is always the mistress—a position which I assure you is one of injustice to the woman and of humiliation to the man.

In Turkey we handle such things differently. Now take myself for instance. I am forty-five, but I am extremely moderate—I have only seven wives, but each of these is a jewel to her own way. I have never known seven nobler women. Their affection for me is tremendous, their respect is absolute and they obey my slightest wish.

Why, I should commit suicide were one of my wives to utter a disrespectful word to me. I beat a light whip on the wall of the harem, but so far I have never had occasion to use it except once.

When I enter the rooms allotted to my wives they all arise and remain standing until I give them permission to embrace me.

I will be kind. I will not contrast this further with the sad lot of the American husband, but, as they say, "take it from me," the only marriage that can be made a success is the Turkish marriage in which women are made to retain their places and rank, as his right is the master of the household, whose word is absolute law.

With great respect, I am,
ABDUL KEMAL RIZIZ.

Opinions of Readers Are Invited

at the church door. I heard a man pass this remark to his wife one day: "What a success—marrying him!" "What the one chasing a car after you've caught it?" But let them remember that you can always get lost in the vacant seat. So married men, stay home nights or someone else will get the vacant chair in the quiet corner. I will sign myself as,

A NINE-YEAR FAILURE.
Marriage Editor: I have been married nine years and never had any success. There is success; it all depends on what kind of a husband we have. Mine was a brute. He always found fault at nothing. I could cook and do most anything in house work, but he was never contented. I like to stay at home with my husband, but he preferred to go out by himself every night.

OPTIMISTS AND PESSIMISTS.
Marriage Editor: Never let an optimist marry an optimist, for they will give a soup what happens until they land in the paragon. And then, never let a pessimist marry a pessimist, for if lucky gets cramps they will find a bullet through their heads. Characters must be blended.

NASH PRICES TO STAY SAME

"Have Never Been Inflated and Cannot be Reduced," President Says
C. P. Rockwell, head Nash distributor, has received the following communication from C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motors Company: "Our prices have always been to give the consumer the best automobile and best truck we could build at the least possible cost. We have never asked a dollar more simply because we could not get it."

"In view of the fact that there is no reduction today in the price of materials or labor entering into Nash products and that there is no possibility of any reduction for some time to come, that our manufacturing costs, the policy of the Nash Motors Company will be to absolutely maintain its present prices on both passenger cars and trucks to at least July 1, 1921."

"Our prices have never been inflated and, therefore, cannot be reduced. For example, the increase in Nash cars since 1917 has been 31 percent, while the average increase in the cost of automobiles during that time has been 76 per cent, and living expenses generally, according to government statistics, have increased 134 per cent.

"Our Hercules bus really has been only 24 per cent when you consider that tires, tires and other equipment have been added as standard."

Called Bond Bread—Why?

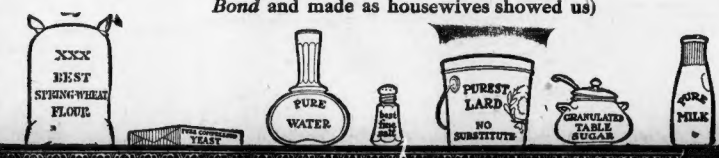

Yeast—
fresh pure compressed yeast
same as you used to use —

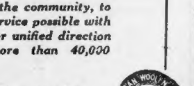

Remember (when you used to bake) how you once tried to get along without fresh yeast? —And how father and the boys complained that the bread wasn't up to your standard? —We could save money by using yeast substitutes in Bond Bread. But it would be at the expense of Bond Bread's "home-made" flavor and goodness. So, when you read (on each Bond Bread wrapper) that pure, fresh compressed yeast is used in Bond Bread— You will realize how the Bond on each wrapper protects that "home-made" quality of Bond Bread and insures a purity which could not otherwise be achieved. Yeast is only one item. Purest flour, milk, sugar, lard, salt and water—all free from substitutes—that is what Bond Bread is made of. These ingredients are guaranteed by our Bond from which Bond Bread gets its name.

STAGE ALL SET FOR OPENING OF THE WORLD'S SERIES GAMES

BIG BATTLE

Record Advance Sale at Ebbets Field Reported for Tomorrow's Contest

By NICK FLATLEY.

Brooklyn, Oct. 4.—The World's Series clans are gathering here, and interest in the big baseball title has reached the memory of the street car, and the baseball scandal and everything. Ebbets Park will be loaded to the brim when the well known first ball is pitched tomorrow. If the ticket demand means anything, the hope is flying thicker than ever, and a consensus of expert opinion leads to the belief that the Dodgers will win the series. The National League unanimously announce that the chapter of memory will adorn the massive brow of Uncle Wilbert Robinson at Ebbets field, while A. L. subscribers have been nominated and elected to watch the game.

Gamblers Too Busy to Gamble

There is betting, of course, on the game, but the former popular large, but the general opinion of odds has vanished. The gamblers are too busy to gamble. The odds are being offered, but the gamblers are too busy to gamble.

There is no doubt that the ultimate result will depend on the pitching. It is always down to the pitching. The Dodgers have a great pitcher in the Speaker. If he can keep the ball in the Speaker's hands, he will win the game.

Pitching Strictly Up to Cleveland Big Three

But if one of the Speaker's three, and, according to Manager Tye, it is not affecting them any more than the others, it is not affecting them any more than the others. The Speaker's three are the only ones who can keep the ball in the Speaker's hands.

Two Game Teams in Big Title Tilt

To put things briefly, two game teams never were tangled up in the big title. The Speaker's three are the only ones who can keep the ball in the Speaker's hands.

Miss Alexa Stirling Made Favorite to Win Women's National Golf Title Again

By ROBERT E. HARLOW.

Cleveland, Oct. 4.—The final major golf tournament of the 1920 season opened today on the course of the Mayfield Country Club, when more than 100 women golfers of the United States and Canada started in the qualifying round in the national women's tournament.

Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, Ga., the present champion and recent winner of the Canadian title, was the favorite, with such other players as Mrs. H. H. Burdette, Miss Marion Hollis, Miss Glenna Collier and Miss Elizabeth Gordon picked as capable of making the title holder play her best golf. Miss Collier, because of the length of the Mayfield course, was looked upon with favor, as she can hit wooden shafts harder than any one in the field.

Many were rooting for Miss Stirling to repeat as she plans to go to England next season and they considered it would be well for her to be fortified by the trip with both the American and Canadian titles. Miss Stirling, the president of the United States Golf Association, was the only Boston woman to enter in the qualifying round. Miss Collier and Miss Hollis, of Providence, members of the Boston Association, strengthened the delegation.

Cleveland as Team Has Edge on Brooklyn

NO. 11—THE TEAM TOTALS.

	Offensive	Defensive	Total
Brooklyn	7381	4419	11770
Cleveland	7403	4446	11849

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

Cleveland presents a team as candidate for the World championship which is less than 100 per cent points in a total of nearly 12,000. Cleveland's strength, the great Cleveland aggregation, which has piled up a team batting average of close to .300, a remarkable achievement, still leads Brooklyn by only six runs in the batting average.

Brooklyn figures to hit the Chicago pitchers a shade better than they would hit the Cleveland pitchers, and at the same time the Sox would hit Brooklyn's pitchers harder than Cleveland does to do—which makes the difference between the teams about the same as between Brooklyn and Cleveland.

The figures are extraordinarily close for a World's Series. The teams that are in the American League and in the National League are the only ones who can keep the ball in the Speaker's hands. The Speaker's three are the only ones who can keep the ball in the Speaker's hands.

The Robinsons are much the same sort of a ball club. They were not expected to win, even by their own supporters. They didn't have any supporters. They didn't have any supporters.

"You see," explained Grace Valentine, "I was standing on a shipboard hanging a picture and I did a Keweenaw."

What's that?

"Well, old," replied the gas girl, "it's a word over on a Keweenaw where they get their laughs by killing the accents. Well, I nearly broke my leg. I tore some lambs in it and oh, my, isn't it painful. It was."

FIRST DROP IN LUNCH PRICES

Downtown Spa Makes Sweeping Reductions as Result of American Campaign

The Mohawk Spa on Avery street has taken the lead in this city in reducing the price of food. Thanks to the reduction are from 25 to 50 per cent. This is the first Boston restaurant to cut prices as the result of the American League Young-Lunch-From-Home movement.

First class coffee and cream is now being sold by this spa for 5 cents a cup. It was formerly 10 cents. The price of coffee and cream has been reduced from 10 to 5 cents. NEW SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

With Ranks Full Outlook for Boston Organization Is Best in History

By FRED J. McISAAC.

The Boston Symphony Orchestra, with full ranks, a distinguished new conductor, and a new season under better conditions than have preceded since the World War, is now in the city. The orchestra has been completely retrained by any one of the four directors who have been in the city during the past three years.

This Boston staff possesses the finest of the city. But the playing quality is largely due to the courage and skill of the conductor, Mr. W. G. Heikkinen, who has been in the city since the war. He has been in the city since the war. He has been in the city since the war.

THE US ARMY TEACHES TRADES

LET go the plow handles for a year or so and learn to drive a tractor. Be an expert on dairy cattle—or sheep—or bees.

Learn something about scientific farming and farm management.

Ask a recruiting officer about it. He'll tell you facts about a farm school at Camp Funston, for instance, that you never imagined you could find in the Army.

In the Army you can learn to be a better farmer than your dad. Instead of paying to learn at some agricultural college, you'll have a good, paying job while you learn—and a chance to see some other part of the country than the familiar "four corners."

Earn a good living and learn how to make the old home farm pay better when you go back to it.

How Baseball Differs From Political Management

Professor Charles Zuehlbin sent us the following letter, which explains itself:

The White Sox baseball manager having discovered that some of his players are corrupt has promptly discharged them. The Republican gang in Massachusetts having found that a distinguished public official is honest, hound him out of public and private life. How long will the Republicans of Massachusetts tolerate the kind of men in control of the party that are now persecuting Governor McCall? Can they learn nothing from the better sports of the baseball world?

Thousands of men like myself and more thousands of women do not feel that their Republican traditions are strong enough or their consciences weak enough to endure the present management of the Republican party in Massachusetts.

Reactionary minorities have two powerful weapons by which they keep control over the majority. The majority can only act through leaders, and majorities are not keen at discovering faults in their leaders and not keen in punishing them, and they are forgetful. They are also too often dull in recognizing faithful service and forgetful of it.

On the other hand, minorities rarely ever forget faithful service or forgive an opponent. It is the implacable pursuit of an opponent through public life that gives minorities a large part of their unwholesome and wrongful power.

Certain elements in the Republican party have never forgiven Governor McCall for being defeated for the United States Senate by methods the description of which would not read well.

State Should Develop Its Water Power Resources

Mr. Guy W. Cox, appearing as counsel for a privately-owned gas lighting company, told the Public Utilities Commission that there is no doubt that the New England Power Company is attempting to secure a stranglehold on the electric and electric-power business in this Commonwealth.

Mr. Cox's statement is important merely as a verification of the report that this power organization is continuing or has resumed a struggle that was begun three years ago to secure a monopoly, not only in Massachusetts, but in the northern New England States as well.

This attempt has generally been camouflaged as a move "for development of the undeveloped water resources of the Commonwealth," and has been defeated every year since, thanks to the alertness of the small waterpower holders who saw the danger of their property being snatched away from them and to the public spirit of men like Representatives Young of Weston, Harshorn of Gardner and Shattuck of Boston, who exposed the vice in these proposed deals to the other members of the Legislature, particularly the lower branch.

In Maine this campaign continues, under the guise of an investigation to determine the availability of undeveloped water resources. We assume that New Hampshire and Vermont still experience the quiet maneuvering of these gentlemen who have no desire to upbuild the resources for public advantage, but who have a marked desire to turn the mill streams into shining flows of silver, with their own pockets as the reservoirs. Mr. Cox's statement removes any doubt that these promoters have not subsided here.

Meanwhile, the State should busy itself with this project. Let us develop our own waterpower resources. Let the dividends be enjoyed by the people as a whole. While we are developing our forests, which is a constructive program resulting from the first Initiative and Referendum bill presented in this State, we could begin the march toward lower power rates and cheaper coal by harnessing the waters which nature intended that all should enjoy equally.

Cockran's Inconsistency in Defending the League

W. Bourke Cockran is now running about the country telling the Democratic voters of Irish descent and other voters that they ought to vote for Candidate Cox of the Democratic party. In the course of his discussion he is obliged, of course, to defend the League of Nations, which is the paramount issue of the campaign.

Anybody but W. Bourke Cockran, in his circumstances, would pale at the very thought of defending the League of Nations for the League of Nations is only justified by its friends upon the ground that it will help NOT America but mankind to the realization of a more peaceful and better world. Not even its most extreme advocates pretend that America needs the League of Nations to defend herself against external enemies. It is advocated upon the sentimental ground that it is our duty toward mankind to associate with them in an organization which will bring them freedom and peace. A League of Nations which will not bring freedom will not bring peace, but so a League of Nations which will not bring freedom falls of both its purposes, and a League of Nations which will shut the door of freedom in the face of mankind not only fails of its purpose, but, of course, actively DEFEATS its purpose.

This, then, is the condition of the argument which Mr. W. Bourke Cockran is obliged to sustain when he undertakes to urge the election of a candidate which is pledged to put us into the League of Nations. Now, when W. Bourke Cockran was not thinking of politics and of his own candidacy for office in this election on the Democratic ticket, he was called upon, not so long ago, to make a speech on the League of Nations. Senator Walsh of Montana, who is said to have ambitions for an appointment to the United States Supreme Court at the hands of President Wilson, and who, except on the League of Nations, has a very fine public record, undertook to defend the League of Nations at this meeting. He admitted that the league did close the door against any hope for Ireland, Egypt, India, Persia, Mesopotamia, Albania, Shantung, Korea, Arabia, Morocco, Algeria and all the little peoples now being mastered and exploited by more powerful nations. But Senator Walsh of Montana contended that there were two other doors left open through which these unfortunate people could escape. To this Mr. Cockran replied:

The objection to this position is that no nation ever did achieve its independence by the aid of a dominant power or by the action of its own people. Every successful revolution of which I have any knowledge was effected through outside support. The American Colonies could not have won their freedom from the domination of France. Cuba would still be under the domination of Spain but for the intervention of this country, and Greece would still be languishing under the heel of the Turk if it had not been for the assistance of Christendom. SO THAT WHEN SENATOR WALSH SAYS THAT BY THIS TRIUMPH OF THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS WE ARE DEPRIVED OF BUT ONE AVENUE OF ESCAPE FROM SERVITUDE, THE ANSWER IS THAT THEY ARE DEPRIVED OF THE ONLY ONE THROUGH WHICH ESCAPE CAN BE EFFECTED.

But Mr. W. Bourke Cockran is never phased by an inconsistency so glaring. Which shall we believe, the Bourke Cockran who spoke before he was a candidate for election, or the Bourke Cockran who is conforming to party regularity as a candidate for election now?

Jimmy and His War Bride

Copyright, 1920, International Feature Service, Inc.

Our hero, his bride and the fourteen children were just sitting down to dinner in their cozy little one-room flat when they were rudely interrupted by a large hand writing things all over the wall. Wall paper is so expensive now, too! And to make it worse, it was a dark night and the wind was creeping around the house with a low moaning noise. Never mind, the next instalment is more cheerful. There's a funny scene in it where the—

The Old-Timer's Lament

By S. E. KISER

It ain't much like it used to be around election time. When Quix would shake the old plum tree and Platt was in his prime. We used to have excitement then, the noise was always loud. Each party had its famous men to rouse the cheerin' crowd. Champ Clark is sayin' not a word, and Bryan's silent, too. It's gettin' long since we have heard from Chauncy M. Depeve.

FULL many a silver tongue is still; where's Parker nowadays? We miss the old, excitin' thrill, the old rip-roarin' ways. Do you remember big Tom Reed and Dave Hill and Carlisle? We'd picnic in them days, indeed! They tore things loose in style. Lord, how we used to scrap about protection and free trade. And fling the starchy banner out and rally and parade!

THE times is changed, it seems to me; it ain't the same old show; We miss the men we used to see a dozen years ago. There's lots of noise, but still, somehow, it all sounds rather tame; It's not the old, excitin' row—the old, important game! The bands ain't playin' any more to help the party win. The way they used to play before we took the ladies in.

Letters to the Editor

Slaughter of Jews

Editor Boston American:
As an American citizen and an ex-serviceman, I would like to have the following printed. Perhaps it will interest the American people: When thousands of Armenians were slaughtered in Turkey the press of the country raised their protests. At present, when the world was made safe for democracy and civilization was advanced, thousands of innocent Jewish families are being slaughtered almost daily by the Poles. In the free Poland, and the civilized world doesn't seem to interest itself nor ask Poland to protect the Jews and to stop the wholesale murder. The Jews have done their bit in this world war, in the American army as well as in the allied armies, and I believe they deserve at least as much right as any human being to live in this world. ALBERT KAHN.

Women Against League

Editor Boston American:
As one of the "new voters," I should like to thank the American for its editorial asking Senator Harding for a definite statement of his stand on the "League of Nations"—that is what we want—and an unequivocal statement of it. We are forming a non-partisan league of women voters in this vicinity, and the voters of many hundreds of the women hinge entirely on this issue. They will not subscribe to this "League of Nations" until they hear from you.

I am quite sure of one thing—that is, had Senator Johnson gotten the nomination, or had he run without it, neither of the others would have had a ghost of a show with the general public. The agitation just now over the California-Japanese question is quite too palpably calculated to try and frighten us into the "League," but we've had so much British propaganda fed on us lately in one guise or another that we recognize it instantly, and this "scare" falls flat. A NEW VOTER.

YE TOWNE GOSSIP

By K. C. B.

DEAR K. C. B.—My wife is a dear girl, but is always hopping on me because I like to go and see a good prize fight occasionally. Either it is the expense she complains of or that I go too often. Now, she is a reader of your column, and loves to read about the horses, birds, cats and dogs that you write about. So if you could write something that would hit the nail on the head I promise you I will slip it to her after supper, and maybe you will be the means of my seeing a fight now and then.

P. S.—Make it strong on the heartache stuff. You know the poor fighters with four and five children and wives and everything. Fix it good.

DEAR H. G. C.
I'M MARRIED myself. And I know. And I like birds. And DOGS. And EVERYTHING. And SO does my wife. And SHE hates prize fights. And I don't. And THE other day, I MADE up my mind. I'D GO to see. And I TRIED to tell her. I WAS going to a fight. With "The Elevator Man." And I finally did. And SHE said to me. "WHAT TIME will you be home?" And I said. "I'll be home." And SHE said. "ALONG ABOUT ONE." And I REAT it.

THINGS IN GENERAL Archbishop, Taxes, Babies, Baseball

Copyright, 1920, Star Company.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of all the British bishops, realizes the condition of affairs in Ireland. He offers prayers for peace, inside of the British European Home Office.

What effect the prayers by the Archbishop will have is, of course, uncertain, such things being settled far from London. While the Archbishop of Canterbury is praying for peace, a great many Irish men and women have been praying for Lord Mayor MacSwiney. Perhaps the release of MacSwiney would have done more good than even the prayers of the Archbishop of Canterbury.

An English newspaper says that MacSwiney is being fed, and gives the name of the tablet in which he gets his concentrated food. This seems to be a fairly good sample of English sportsmanship. When the America won the cup that Lipton hasn't been able to get back, "true English sportsmen" suggested that there was probably an engine concealed in the America, pushing her on, and wanted an investigation.

In making money to provide for the future the thing that counts is not how much you make, but how much you save. And so it is in creating population to provide for the future.

Statistics in 269 cities, with a total population of 31,000,000, show that thanks to science, pasteurization of milk and mothers with more information about their children, the death rate has dropped to an average of 87 for 1,000 babies. In Brookline, Mass., where intelligence and health are combined, the deaths were only 40 in one thousand.

Not long ago, in miserable slums, the deaths averaged not far from 600 in a thousand, and in at least one public institution, in the greatest city in the country, the deaths were 700 in a thousand and higher, so that the institution was practically an institution for murdering babies.

The improved death rate means a saving for 1919 of 12,000 children, or the population of a small city.

All this saving of life is due to cleanliness, care in feeding, knowledge of the laws of health. This fact is recommended to those who believe that there is no such thing as "disease."

There is nothing like statistics to correct mental foolishness.

It is suggested, to encourage home building, that new houses be exempt from taxation for ten years.

Why NEW houses only? Why not exempt from taxation up to a certain value ALL houses in which fathers and mothers bring up their children? They are working for the State, taking care of the next generation. A State that exempts from taxation churches, orphan asylums, some buildings owned by Freemasons and similar institutions, might well exempt from taxation ALL homes for fathers, mothers and children, costing ten thousand dollars or less.

There is certainly nothing more respectable than a home, nothing more worthy of government encouragement, churches and orphan asylums not excepted.

Many States, including the biggest in the nation, have authorized prize fighting, establishing centres for distributing crime and disease. One simple question establishes the character of the prize fighting fraternity.

How many champion fighters in the different grades—featherweight, lightweight, middleweight, heavyweight, etc.—actually did any fighting in the war? How many wore the fighting uniform of the country?

If their own convictions or convenience kept them from fighting for their country in war time, should not public decency keep them from fighting for profit in peace times?

The French champion, Carpentier, more honest to him, fought in the front trenches of the war was wounded. He ought to refuse to meet any fighter with nothing but a "soft glove" fighting record.

Baseball players have confessed. What this newspaper and others have guessed is proved. The "looking on" game of baseball has developed the usual gambling corruption. Players have confessed—eight of them are indicted.

What about the gamblers that bribed them? Any punishment for them?

As to the poor fools that bet and lost, they can charge their experience, as usual, to profit and loss.

Not this experience or a thousand more will teach them the plain fact which you live with: you are pulling up stakes and seeking another environment every time the fit takes you. And each member of the family grows up in an irresponsible way, if anything is out of order, "let George fix it," it does not belong to me, is the measure of attitude it receives.

If you wish to weaken your heredity, spoil your naturally good disposition and stunt your growth generally, keep moving.

If you want to be something worth while, find a place you like and stay there.

ABOUT OWNING YOUR OWN HOME

Just what would happen to a tree if the roots were always kept loose in the ground underneath?

Shrivel up and dry out, wouldn't they, no matter how rich the dirt nor how well watered.

Just the same way in bringing up a family.

You move around from pillar to post, gain nothing worth having from the land because it takes time to do anything worth while.

All your efforts are expended on temporary, short-lived flowers or vegetables.

As for your own spiritual growth, you become pretty much a turnip yourself.

And you will never grow into a beautiful evergreen joy to the community which you live with by pulling up stakes and seeking another environment every time the fit takes you.
